

South Ulster Harp Duo

Anna Somerville and Nikki Magee

The SELB Music Service has a long-established tradition of classical harp teaching and performing. Inspired by professional harpist Aileen MacArdle in the early 1990s, the department has flourished over the years reaching ever-larger numbers of enthusiastic young people. The members of the duo have performed at numerous recitals and master-classes. Their passion for the harp has taken them to the World Harp Congress and other related events in Dublin and at the Royal Academy of Music in London.

Anna is a current member of the Ulster Youth Orchestra. Both Anna and Nikki are current members of the South Ulster Youth Orchestra. As members of the South Ulster Harp Ensemble both have performed at many prestigious events and venues including the Waterfront Hall, St Patrick's Church of Ireland Cathedral, Armagh and The Lagan Valley Island Arts Centre, Lisburn. Their wide ranging programme includes music from the classical repertoire as well as popular and folk idioms.
